LONDON

QUEEN Elizabeth II's coffin was on Monday lowered into the Royal Vault at St George's Chapel in Windsor Castle, bringing to an end public mourning for Britain's longestreigning monarch.

The "second Elizabethan age" was symbolically brought to a close when the highestranking official in the royal household, Lord Chamberlain Andrew Parker, broke his wand of office and the Imperial State Crown, orb and sceptre were placed on the high altar.

The Queen's funeral service at Westminster Abbey ebbed between moments of triumph and peace, lament and emotion — and awesome majesty.

Inside the imposing Gothic church, royalty and government leaders said farewell to a

"IN loving and devoted memory, Charles R." This handwritten card from King Charles III placed among the colourful flowers lying over rich green foliage gave personal touch to British Queen Elizabeth II's coffin during the late monarch's final journey on Monday. The gold, pink and deep burgundy colour flowers and plants, taken from the gardens of royal properties, were chosen for their symbolism, the BBC reported.

At King Charles III's request, the wreath for the Britain's longest-serving monarch's funeral contained flowers and foliage cut from the gardens of Buckingham Palace and Clarence House in London — and Highgrove House in Gloucestershire, it said.

The colourful flowers and plants were chosen for their symbolism — Rosemary for remembrance, Myrtle, the ancient symbol of a happy marriage, cut from a plant that was grown from a sprig of myrtle in The Queen's wedding bouquet in 1947, and English oak, a national symbol of strength, in a nod to the Queen's constancy and steadfast duty.

It also symbolises the strength of love, it added. The flowers in the Queen's funeral wreath featured scented pelargoniums, garden roses, autumnal hydrangea, sedum, dahlias and scabious, all in shades of gold, pink and deep burgundy, with touches of white, to reflect the colours in the Royal Standard flag on which it sat, it said.

The wreath was made in a sustainable way instead in a nest of English moss and oak branches at the request of King Charles, who is wellknown for his commitment to the environment, it added.

Unlike Monday's colourful wreath, more traditional white funeral wreaths sat atop the Queen's coffin on her final journey from Balmoral. PTI

Writer Meena Kandasamy wins German literary award

Feminist writer Meena Kandasamy is the winner of this year's Hermann Kesten Prize by the German PEN Center, German broadcaster DW News reported on Monday. "Honestly, I am not sure how to process it," Kandasamy told DW News. "Previous recipients include Günter Grass and Harold Pinter, and the weight of what this prize means is actually still sinking in," she said. Kandasamy noted that she sees the award "not only as an affirmation of what I have done, but of the historical responsibility that we all have as progressive writers and artists in India today."Vice-president of the German PEN Center Cornelia Zetzsche called the 37-year-old born in Chennai, "a fearless fighter for democracy and human rights, for the free word and against the suppression of landless people, minorities and Dalits in India".
